

WHAT CRITICS ARE SAYING ABOUT BODY WORLDS

"I can say, without fear of the words being a meaningless cliché, BODY WORLDS is unlike any exhibit before. Just as the bodies (in the exhibit) blur the line between life and death, the exhibit as a whole blurs the line between science and art."

–Laurence Liss, Art Matters Magazine

"Fascinating ...BODY WORLDS gives a new humanity and dignity to the body, and even a reverence for what went into creating the complicated and marvelous machine we inhabit."

–Lucia Herndon, Philadelphia Inquirer

"For a been there, done that society, there's one very important place most of you have never been - your own bodies ... BODY WORLDS is a most extraordinary journey."

–ABC Los Angeles

"...You can hardly avoid feeling in awe of the fascinating complexity of the human form and the beauty that lies beneath our skin."

–Carol Hilton, The Medical Post

"...it's easy to forget that these are real people, real specimens, and the fascination of it all, the pure love of science, takes over ... The human body starts out as a beautiful thing, the show seems to say: Don't mess it up."

–Peter Dobrin, Philadelphia Inquirer

"Many of the figures may be worth seeing for their aesthetic beauty alone..."

–Charlotte Observer

"While to those who have not seen it, the exhibit sounds macabre, BODY WORLDS is truly fascinating."

–Viva Sarah Press, The Jerusalem Post

"The exhibition cannot fail to be hugely instructive, nor can it fail to engage us in an extreme way."

–Adrian Searle, The Guardian UK

"This is an exhibition which is fascinating and illuminating, instructive and astonishing and quite unique."

–Jim Herrick, New Humanist

"If you would rather see a sermon than hear one, here's your chance...Don't let death scare you from going."

–Regina Brett, The Plain Dealer

"BODY WORLDS, once regarded as a controversial exhibition by media and critics, has turned into a blockbuster family show, drawing enormous crowds wherever it lands."

–Christian Meir, Philadelphia Inquirer

For more information, contact the BODY WORLDS Press Office:

Summer Katzenbach for Dr. Gunther von Hagens

Media & Communications Manager, BODY WORLDS 3

(602) 716-2000, Ext. 2516 or s.katzenbach@bw.plastination.com